2004 Season Statistics ......... 13
The Bulldogs return their top three batting average leaders from 2003. Scully hopes that his 17 returning players (eight position players and nine pitchers) will learn from that experience and be able to pull out more close victories this season. Ten new-comers will also join the squad, many of whom will be expected to contribute right away.

Offensively, Scully expects his team to hit for a high average. They will have to do a good job of manufacturing runs as the lineup is short on power hitters.

Defensively, the Bulldogs have a lot of depth at pitching and also experience, with five of the six projected starters returning from last year. Truman had one of its best fielding teams under Scully last season, and the head coach expects his team to be strong in this area again this year.

The leadership roles on the 2004 season have been handed to senior captains Matt Kupferle and Brad Miller. "Those two players have put a lot into the program during their careers," Scully said. "I really hope they have good seasons both individually and that they are able to lead us to success as a team."

Pitching

A pair of seniors, Brant Kraner and Kupferle, will lead the Bulldogs’ pitching staff. Kraner was second last season in innings pitched, had a team-high in complete games and tied for the team-high in wins. He is a power pitcher, striking out over eight batters during his career, per nine innings of work. Kupferle led the team in ERA a year ago and was third in innings pitched. He is usually among the team’s leaders in strikeouts.

"Those two guys lead by example and set a strong foundation to our staff," said Scully. Other starters are junior Coley Lewis, freshman Ryan Pias and sophomores Denny Foster and Colin Spillenkothen.

Lewis has worked hard on his mechanics and hopes to regain his form from when he led the team in wins and saves as a freshman. Pias may have the most potential among the Bulldog hurlers. He has twice earned starts in the St. Louis Amateur Baseball Association all-star game.

Foster had the top strikeout ratio on the team last year, retiring 27 batters in 25+ innings of work. If he can become more consistent, he could be the surprise of the staff.

Spillenkothen is the most improved player from last year when he appeared in 10 games, including four starts.

The top two pitchers in the bullpen are sophomore Dan Hillen and freshman Brian James. The Bulldogs are trying to groom Hillen for the closer’s role. Last season, he came out of the pen in 13 games and earned two saves. James will look to help the team after earning all-conference honors in high school.

Other pitchers for Truman are senior Tony Jenkins, juniors Scott Gaines and Matt Maxfield and freshmen Ben Burkemper, Tom Kammerer and Jacob Scheer.

Jenkins, Gaines and Maxfield were all steady performers out of the pen last season. Scheer is a two-time all-state athlete while Burkemper and Kammerer were both American Legion all-stars.

Catcher

Sophomore Mike Arway will likely see the bulk of the catching duties. He is a good defensive catcher who works well with the pitchers. Sophomore Andrew Pitts and freshman Pat Wilmes will also see time behind the plate.

Pitts, who also plays third-base, sat out just three games last year and had an on-base percentage over .300. Wilmes earned first-team all-conference honors last year in high school.

Infield

First-base will be covered by sophomore Jon Peckron, who will likely hit in the clean-up spot to start the season. Peckron is a strong batting average and RBI guy who also sports above average defensive numbers in the field.

James will be the backup at first-base. The Bulldogs’ leadoff hitter, sophomore Adam Davis, will be at second. He showed the potential to be an all-conference type of player last year when he was second on the team in runs, batting average, on-base percentage, slugging percentage and stolen bases.

Freshman Zach Cox, a former high school first-team all-conference performer, will also see time at second-base.

At short, junior college transfer Andy Vandepopulier will likely earn the nod. He is an impact type player at the plate and will be a leader defensively at shortstop.

Freshman Travis Freeman, another first-team all-conference player in high school, will be second on the depth chart at short.

Junior Patrick Hardin and Pitts will play at second-base.

Outfield

In left field, sophomore Josh Rubin will see most of the starts. Rubin led the team in batting average in 2003. He runs the bases well and can also hit with power, giving the middle of the Bulldogs’ lineup a boost.

Freshman John Sheehan will back up Rubin. The former all-state performer provides Truman with a left-handed bat.

Miller is one of the team’s best base runners and gives a consistent performance in center field. Last season, he was third on the team in runs scored and was caught stealing just once in nine attempts.

Senior Jamie Wolf will likely see time in right field and as the team’s designated hitter. Wolf can hit for average and is a lead-by-example type of performer.

Jenkins will also see playing time in right field during the season.

Schedule

The Bulldogs have a tough non-conference schedule this year, playing more Division II schools than in the past.

The team heads to Fort Myers this year during its annual trip to Florida. This new destination will provide better weather and also give the squad a chance to play some regional opponents they normally haven’t faced in the past.

The Mid-America Intercollegiate Athletics Association continues to be one of the top conferences in NCAA Division II, as Central Missouri proved last year by winning the national championship. NCAA participants Northwest Missouri and Emporia State are also expected to be among the league leaders this year when all the dust settles.
Scully’s players have earned 35 MIAA commissioner’s academic honor roll honors.

Lawrence Scully
HEAD COACH

Lawrence Scully became the fifth Truman head baseball coach on Sept. 1, 2000. Since picking up a victory in his first game as a collegiate head coach, a 7-4 victory over Marietta (Ohio), Scully has balanced improving the program on the field while recruiting some of the top student-athletes in the conference.

In three years, Scully’s teams have earned 39 victories, the most by a Truman coach after three years. His first squad won five more games than the previous season and nearly doubled its winning percentage. In 2002, his team again improved in the win column with 15 victories. Last year, the Bulldogs struggled in the middle part of the schedule but finished strong, winning six of the final 11 contests.

Six players have been named to the all-MIAA team since 2001. Off the field, Scully’s players have been named to the MIAA commissioner’s academic honor roll 35 times, the most of any conference school during that span. One player each season has been named to the CoSIDA academic all-district team and one, Nick Pianalto, was named to the 2001 academic all-MIAA team.

Another of Scully’s former players, Scott Theriault, was selected as a representative to the NCAA Foundation Leadership conference.

Scully came to Truman from Morningside College (Iowa) where he served as hitting instructor, outfield coach and first base coach in 2000. Morningside’s offense prospered under Scully, setting new single-season records for batting average, hits, doubles, runs scored and runs batted in. The team also set a new season standard for victories. He was also involved in scouting and recruiting at Morningside.

Scully’s experience is not limited to the offensive aspect of the game. Prior to his stint at Morningside, he served two seasons as pitching instructor and third base coach at Sioux City West High School in Sioux City, Iowa.

Scully was also the pitching instructor for Indian Hills Community College in Centerville, Iowa, from 1992-96. Over that span, Indian Hills reached the Junior College World Series three times. Seven of the hurlers Scully guided during his tenure were selected in the Major League Baseball draft.

Scully entered the coaching ranks after a collegiate playing career in which he spent time with both Indian Hills and Western Kentucky University. He was also a participant in the Canadian Olympic team program in 1987.

In the classroom, Scully earned a master’s degree in sport science from the United States Sports Academy and a bachelor’s degree in English Literature from Western Kentucky.

In addition to his experience, Scully also brings enthusiasm to the Bulldog program. “It’s exciting,” he said. “Our goal is for each student-athlete to reach his full potential, both in the classroom and on the playing field.”

And along with his zest for the game, Scully provides an infusion of confidence for his young charges. “I told the team that I was in a program that one year finished dead last, the next we were in the conference championship. I know what it takes to run a successful program.”
