TRUMAN (5-17, 1-12 MIAA): The Bulldogs will go on the road this Saturday to take on Pittsburg State University. The two teams played an exciting overtime contest earlier this year with the Gorillas escaping Pershing Arena with a 77-74 win.

Truman continues to struggle offensively in MIAA play as its losing streak has reach 10 games following Wednesday's loss to Missouri Western. In that losing skid, the Bulldogs have scored more than 70 points just twice, one of those being the overtime game against the Gorillas.

Pittsburg State clinched a place in the MIAA postseason tournament this week despite losing to Missouri Southern by a 80-75 score on Wednesday. The Gorillas are sixth in the current standings and are looking to improve their seed before the tourney.

PITTSBURG STATE (14-8, 7-6 MIAA): The Gorillas have struggled since their win earlier in the year over Truman, dropping five of seven games. Four of those losses, however, were on the road. Pittsburg State has an 8-2 overall home record on the season.

Pittsburg State is fifth in the MIAA in both scoring offense and defense. The Gorillas are one of the top rebounding teams in the league with a +5.8 rebounding margin and leads the conference with 5.6 blocks a game.

The Gorillas are led by the duo of Cedric Brooks and Jamey Richardson. Brooks is second in the MIAA with 21.5 points and 2.32 three-pointers a game and leads the conference in steals. Richardson leads the MIAA in rebounding and blocks and averages a double-double with 15.4 points and 10.9 rebounds.

Brandon Twito averages 9.9 points and 5.4 rebounds a game while Greg Campbell has a team-high 3.6 assists a contest.

Pittsburg State is coached by Gene Iba. He has a coaching record of 154-73 in eight years at the school and an overall mark of 380-276 in 23 years as a head coach.

EARLIER THIS YEAR- Pittsburg State-77, Truman-74 (OT):

The Bulldogs took Pittsburg State, then ranked No. 23 in the country, into overtime but they could not come up with the victory in Pershing Arena.

Truman jumped out to a 13-2 lead in the first seven and a half minutes and went into halftime with a 30-26 advantage. The second-half was back-and-forth as neither team led by more than six points and there were 14 lead changes. The Bulldogs were down one when Jiri Mikl hit a three-pointer with 1:34 left.

2002-03 TRUMAN CUMULATIVE STATISTICS
HOME COURT ADVANTAGE: Defending your home court is always important in conference play, especially this season in what is a very balanced league. So far in MIAA action, the home team has won 47 of 65 games (72.3%).

CLOSE CALLS: Truman has been competitive in many of its losses this year. Two of the Bulldogs defeats have come in overtime and nine of the losses have been by less than 10 points.

BERAN LEADS BULLDOGS OFFENSIVE: Matt Beran has been the main Bulldogs scoring threat the last few games. He has led the team in scoring the last three contests and is the only player to score in double-figures in the games against Emporia State and Missouri Western.

Over the last seven games, Beran is averaging 18.3 points and shooting 53.1% from the field. He has scored 19 or more points in five of the games in that span.

CONFERENCE STATS: Matt Beran leads the team in MIAA games with 15.5 points and 7.5 rebounds per game and is averaging 3.4 assists. Jiri Miki is the only other Bulldog in double-figure scoring with 12.9 points and is second on the team with 22 three-pointers. Aaron Mueller leads the team with 23 three-pointers while Chip Sodemann has a team-high 3.5 assists a game.

As a team, Truman is averaging 65.9 points in MIAA games after averaging 73.8 in the non-conference season. The Bulldogs are also giving up more points in conference action, allowing 79.8 points a game to MIAA opponents compared to 66.7 points to non-conference foes.

HOME COURT SHOOTING: Truman is a much better shooting team at home than on the road. This year at home, the Bulldogs are shooting 46.2% from the field, 35.8% from three-point range and 77.4% from the free throw line. Away from Pershing Arena, these numbers are much lower as the team is shooting 43.2% from the field, 31.8% from beyond the arc and 67.5% from the charity stripe.

THREE-POINT WOES: Truman went 0-of-12 from beyond the arc on Wednesday against Missouri Western, marking just the sixth time since the three-point rule came into affect that the Bulldogs failed to hit a three-pointer in a game. The other five times all came in 1986-87, the first season the three-pointer was around.

The Bulldogs have struggled from outside the last five games, never hitting more than five three-pointers in a game and shooting just 26.4% from three-point range in that span.

HEAD COACH JACK SCHRADER: Jack Schrader is in his eighth season as head coach of the Truman men’s basketball team after serving as an assistant coach at Truman for four years under Willard Sims.

In seven years under Schrader, the Bulldogs have made five appearances in the MIAA postseason tournament. Prior to this season, he was 83-110 (.430) for his career at Truman and, in 1998-99, led the team to one of its best seasons that concluded with an appearance in the 1998-99 NCAA championship semifinals. Truman claimed the MIAA postseason tournament championship that year and Schrader was named the conference’s coach of the year and the NABC regional coach of the year.

Prior to coaching the Bulldogs, Schrader coached professional and high school teams all over the world. He was a member of the Arizona State Sun Devils for three years and was drafted by the Phoenix Suns in 1975 and played professionally in Europe.

Truman had a chance to win the game in regulation but missed the front end of a one-and-one and a three-point attempt in the last seven seconds. In overtime, Quincy scored the first six points and a Bulldogs three-pointer at the buzzer was off the mark as the Hawks won by three points.
