On Sept. 3, 1979, Truman opened a new chapter in intercollegiate athletics. The Bulldogs took the field against the 1978 NCAA Division III runners-up, Washington University, falling 2-0 in the end. Although the Purple and White did not start with a victory, and in fact did not score a collegiate win until the last game of the season, the wheels were set in motion for the program to rise to national prominence.

Jeff Wolfe was the Bulldogs’ first head coach, serving a two-year stint. His team compiled a 5-13-1 record. However, in 1981, John Guffey became the second head coach of the Bulldogs. Guffey joined four other schools in the Mid-America Intercollegiate Athletics Association (MIAA). Guffey’s squad finished third in the inaugural conference season with Missouri-St. Louis grabbing the title. The 1982 team did not fare much better, finishing in a tie for third with Southeast Missouri State.

The first two seasons marked the lowest finishes Truman posted in league action. The 1983 team wrote itself into the lore of Bulldog soccer with the first 10-win season. Success did not end there as the ‘Bulls earned a share of the MIAA title, the program was named MIAA Coach of the year, as well as NSCAA Division II Midwest region coach of the year for the second consecutive year.

Truman earned the league title outright in 1984. Greg Hantak, who became the third head coach, garnered MIAA coach of the year honors in his only campaign at the helm of the Bulldogs.

David Poggi became the Bulldogs’ fourth head coach in the program’s six-year history in 1985. His first squad was lackluster compared to the previous season as they finished with a 4-10-4 overall record. The stumble was only temporary, in fact, no other Poggi-directed team would have a losing record. In 1986, the Bulldogs charted a then record 12 wins, but finished second in the MIAA for the second-straight season. Poggi and UMSL’s Don Dallas shared MIAA coach of the year honors while Truman forward Steve Schlichtig was named co-MVP of the league.

Poggi and Dallas again split the MIAA coach of the year accolades in 1987. The squad posted a team-best 14 wins, 10 of which came by way of shutouts. The MIAA dropped sponsorship of a league soccer title after the 1988 season. The final year of league competition was a carbon-copy of the previous two with Missouri-St. Louis winning its seventh and final league trophy. The Bulldogs posted their fourth straight 10-plus win season. Poggi earned NSCAA Division II Midwest region coach of the year honors.

In 1990, the ‘Dogs received their first bid to the NCAA Division II Soccer Championship. Truman battled Oakland (Mich.) to a 1-1 tie after regulation. The two squads remained knotted after overtime, forcing penalty kicks. Oakland won the session 4-1, ending Truman’s hopes.

The MIAA reinstated men’s soccer as a league sport but that didn’t slow the team down. Truman advanced to the NCAA tournament for the third straight year but fell in overtime to IU/UP Fort Wayne in the first-round by a 3-2 score. Bill Bailey’s team continued to put up impressive numbers the next three seasons with 11 wins in 2000 and 2001 and 13 in 2002. However, the Bulldogs just missed out of a NCAA berth in each of those seasons.

Truman’s sixth coach, Dennis Sweeney, took over the coaching duties in 1995. He broke the jinx (a losing first season) that had been on each of Truman’s head coaches since the program’s inception. In fact, the 1995 squad posted a 13-3 overall mark, 5-0-0 record in the MIAA and played host to an NCAA quarterfinal game against Mercyhurst (Pa.). The postseason contest ended with the Bulldogs falling 1-0. Sweeney was named MIAA coach of the year in 1996. Truman again posted 10-plus wins and captured the MIAA title for the third-straight season. Sweeney was the MIAA Coach of the Year in 1996.

Sweeney’s third squad wrote its own chapter in the annals of Bulldog soccer, erasing postseason failures. Besides capturing its fourth straight and sixth overall league trophy, Truman made its fourth trip to the postseason. The ‘Dogs downed Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville in a first-round matchup, followed by a home victory against East Stroudsburg (Pa.). The run ended to eventual national champion Cal State-Bakersfield in a semifinal contest.

Former Bulldog Alf Billbom took over the reins of the program in 1998, guiding Truman back to the NCAA post-season for the first time in the ’90s. The ‘Dogs posted double figures in wins for the 11th time in 13 seasons, going 14-4-2. Truman opened the playoffs with an overtime win at home against Quincy (Ill.). However, the ‘Dogs bid to return to the Final Four fell short with a 1-0 loss against Mercyhurst (Pa.).

In 1999, men’s soccer again ceased being a MIAA sport but that didn’t slow the team down. Truman advanced to the NCAA tournament for the third straight year but fell in overtime to IU/UP Fort Wayne in the first-round by a 3-2 score. Bill Bailey’s team continued to put up impressive numbers the next three seasons with 11 wins in 2000 and 2001 and 13 in 2002. However, the Bulldogs just missed out of a NCAA berth in each of those seasons.

BULLDOGS IN NCAA RECORD BOOK

Several Bulldogs are listed in the NCAA Division II 2002 record book.

Goalkeeper Stan Dippel still ranks sixth in NCAA Division II single season saves per game (12.38) after making 161 stops in 13 games in 1982.

Among NCAA DII career leaders, Dippel is ninth in total saves and 13th in saves per game (7.54), after making 460 saves in 61 games from 1982-85.

Claes Meldal ranks 12th in DII career assists per game (0.71) after helping on 34 goals in 48 games from 1994-95 and in 1998.

Ryan Swan scored a goal just 44 seconds after Missouri-Rolla’s Nathan Wojtkiewicz scored in a game on Oct. 22, 1999, which ranks 15th on the DII list of fastest consecutive goals by opposing teams.

Goalkeeper Stefan Wall is 10th in NCAA DII career minutes played with 6554:00 from 1988-91.

Current head coach Alf Bilbao starts the 2003 season with the seventh-best winning percentage among active coaches (.718).

As a team, Truman appears several places in the NCAA record book.

The Bulldogs’ 16 goals vs. Lincoln on Oct. 18, 1995, ranks tied for sixth in single-game goals.

Truman’s 12.94 saves per game in 1982 is eighth all-time, while the 207 team saves that year ranks 11th on the single season list for DII.

The Bulldogs charted 11 straight conference wins from Nov. 5, 1994, to Oct. 9, 1997, tying for the 15th longest streak among NCAA DII teams. The ‘Dogs are also tied for ninth in consecutive conference unbeaten streaks with 19 games from Oct. 9, 1988 to Oct. 11, 1997. However, the Mid-America Intercollegiate Athletics Association ceased sponsoring men’s soccer after the 1998 season.

Postseason Appearances

The 1997 NCAA Division II Semifinalist Team.

Prior to the 1997 run at the Division II championship, Truman had made the NCAA playoffs three times, losing to Oakland (Mich.) twice and Mercyhurst (Pa.) once.

On Nov. 14, 1990, with freezing temperatures and snow in Michigan, the Bulldogs battled to a 1-1 overtime deadlock with Oakland. The ‘Dogs trailed at halftime, but Pat Rhode scored with 17 minutes left in regulation time to tie the game. Truman and OU then played two 15-minute overtime periods, after which the score was still tied.

A winner was determined to advance to the second round by a 10-shot penalty kick shootout which Truman lost, 4-1. Oakland was credited with a team goal for winning the shootout, giving them the win and a berth in the second round.

On Nov. 14, 1993, the Bulldogs and the Pioneers battled again in the mild overcast skies of Michigan. This time, both teams were scoreless until Eil Tomkin scored off Bulldog keeper Josh Trimble with about 25 minutes left. Oakland added another goal six minutes later to wrap up the victory and advance to the second round.

For the first time in the history of the Truman program, the Bulldogs received a bye in the first round of the playoffs and played host to a tournament game on Nov. 19, 1995. Mercyhurst fended off five Truman shots on goal to shutout the Bulldogs and move on to the NCAA Division II Soccer Final Four. For the third time in as many playoff games, the ‘Dogs were held winless in the postseason.

The men’s soccer program will always hold Nov. 16, 1997, as a key date in its history. On that day, the Bulldogs broke a drought in regard to postseason victories. Truman handed the region’s No. 1 seed, Southern Illinois-Edwardsville, a 2-1 loss on its home pitch in freezing conditions with snow blowing in the air. The Purple and White returned home the following weekend, playing host to East Stroudsburg (Pa.) in conditions much the same as its first postseason game. The Bulldogs prevailed, holding on to a 1-0 lead from early in the first half. The victory sent the ‘Dogs to Boca Raton, Fla., for a semifinal contest. Truman fell, 2-0, to Cal State-Bakersfield, which went on to defeat Lynn (Fla.) University for the national championship.

The 1998 Bulldogs followed suit, making the playoffs for the fifth time of the decade, and looked for a return trip to the final four. Hosting the first round contest, the ‘Dogs pulled out a 3-2 overtime thriller over Quincy (Ill.) on Lee Letourneau’s 40-foot blast with two minutes left in the first overtime. Truman then hosted Mercyhurst (Pa.) with a berth in the NCAA Division II semifinals on the line. However, Mercyhurst escaped by handing the ‘Dogs a 1-0 loss. Mercyhurst went on to finish third in the nation.

In 1999, Truman was again chosen to host a first-round contest against IU/UP Fort Wayne. The Mastodons appeared to have a comfortable 2-0 lead with less than 10 minutes remaining when Ryan Swan scored a pair of goals, the last with 42 seconds remaining to force overtime. The Bulldogs, however, could not take advantage of their momentum and IU/UP Fort Wayne scored the gamewinner in the 103rd minute.

The 1998 NCAA Division II Quarterfinalist Team.
Five former Truman players have been honored for their distinguished performances by being named to the National Soccer Coaches Association of America All-America teams.

Stan Dippel, a goalkeeper, was the first Bulldog named to the NSCAA Division II all-America first-team. Dippel was chosen to the 1983 all-America team after allowing an average of only 1.0 goals per game, recording six shutouts and 113 saves, and helping Truman capture a share of the Mid-America Intercollegiate Athletics Association title. Still the holder of two school records, Dippel was a first-team all-MIAA pick in 1983 and was an honorable mention choice in ‘82 and ‘83.

Quinn Ross, the first professional player to emerge from the Truman ranks, was named to the NSCAA second-team in 1988 and 1989. Ross, who is second all-time in scoring (96 pts.) and tied for second in goals (35), was the first four-time all-Midwest selection and the first Bulldog to receive national honors twice.

Dippel and Ross were members of the Truman all-decade team for the ‘80s with Ross being named player of the decade by the University soccer boosters.

In 1990, goalkeeper Stefan Wall became only the third Bulldog to earn all-America status, after shattering Dippel’s career shutout record (28) and helping the team to an NCAA Division II national tournament appearance. Wall was named to the all-America second-team that year. During his career, he posted 339 saves and still owns two school records. He is also a two-time adidas academic all-America and a three-time regional academic all-America.

Four-year starter Josh Bahr captured first-team all-America status in 1995. Bahr was named to the NSCAA/NCAA Division II all-Midwest region teams following the 1993 & 1994 seasons. During that time, he was instrumental in helping Truman win its third MIAA crown in ‘94 and in the team’s appearance in the NCAA Division II Soccer Championships. Bahr’s defensive skills helped the ‘95 squad set a record for fewest goals allowed (14) and chart 10 shutouts for the season.

Matt Byers became the latest Bulldog to earn NSCAA/adidas all-America status in 1999. Byers was named to the NSCAA/NCAA Division II all-Midwest region teams following the 1993 & 1994 seasons. During that time, he was instrumental in helping Truman win its third MIAA crown in ‘94 and in the team’s appearance in the NCAA Division II Soccer Championships. Byers again earned NSCAA/adidas third-team all-America honors in 2000 after leading the team with 17 goals, eight assists and 42 points.

The Intercollegiate Soccer Association of America/adidas Scholar-Athlete All-America Team was established to honor outstanding athletes who have also excelled academically. A minimum GPA of 3.25 and outstanding performance on the field of play are requirements to make the 24-member team.

Bob Atherton, a defensive back for Truman from 1985-88, was the first Bulldog to be named to the national team. He was an honorable mention selection in 1987 and a first-team pick in 1988.

Atherton was a four-time all-Mid-America Intercollegiate Athletics Association and NSCAA Midwest All-America selection holding a 3.54 GPA in computer science.

Goalkeeper Stefan Wall capped off a distinguished career by becoming the second Truman soccer player selected to the ISAA/Adidas Academic All-American first team. He was the defensive MVP three years in a row, team co-MVP in 1987, Rookie of the Year and received the team’s Sportsmanship award.

Wall was also a three-time Adidas Academic All-Midwest selection. In 1992, he was selected to the GTE/Sports Information Directors of America Academic All-America Men’s At-Large Second Team for College Division schools.

Carrying a 3.78 GPA as a pre-law/political science major at Truman. Wall was named to the dean’s list all four years of his career and was a Presidential and Distinguished Scholar.
