TRUMAN: The women’s basketball team opened its 2002-03 campaign with an exhibition game at the University of Missouri-Columbia last Friday. The Tigers won that game 92-46 as head coach John Sloop got all 12 of his eligible players on the court at some point in the game.

Sophomore guard Kelli Floyd (Kirksville, Mo.) led the team with a career-high 14 points, including two three-pointers. Redshirt freshman Sarah Bernard (Clever, Mo.) also scored in double figures with 10 points and hit two long range buckets in the first start of her college career. Both women were also perfect from the free throw line, going 4-for-4.

Junior forward Annie Westhoff (Webster Groves, Mo.) led Truman on the boards, grabbing six rebounds to lead the team, while sophomore center Jamie Huffman (St. Peters, Mo./Francis Howell Central) was second with five caroms for the evening.

The Bulldogs shot 23.9% for the game and turned the ball over 25 times, while the Tigers shot 43.8% and had 14 steals and five blocked shots. Truman was down by just nine points at halftime, but was out-scored 16-2 to start the second period.

2002-03 SEASON PREVIEW

As the Truman Bulldogs prepare to embark on the 2002-03 basketball season, somewhat of a question mark exists as to how the team will adjust to many new faces and the loss of some key all-MIAA center Jennifer Perkins, along with the school's all-time three-point leader, Wendi Sobaski. And, nearly half of the team this year is new.

“We’ve been pleased with the way the first couple of weeks have gone,” head coach John Sloop said. “But with the loss of four seniors, we’ll be a brand new team and I don’t think we’ll really know how they’ll do until they’re thrown into the fire.”

The ‘Dogs will have to make due without the strong presence at the center position they’ve had the last few years, but will go to more of a motion offense in an attempt to give other individuals the opportunity to post up, as well as to try to take advantage of mis-matches at other spots.

Truman’s forwards will be headed up by senior Jennifer Fisher who led the team with 63 assists and 29 steals last year and was second in three-pointers made (35) and rebounding (6.5 rpg).

“Jennifer, over the course of these last three years, may have been the most talented and versatile player on the team,” Sloop indicated. “I think how we play this year will depend on how consistent she is. If she’s consistent and we can achieve that higher level of play, we’ll have a chance to be competitive.”

However, Sloop will also rely heavily on junior forward Annie Westhoff, the team’s top returning scorer with 8.4 points a game last year.

“Annie continues to get better and better,” Sloop said. “We’ll be looking for leadership from her. She’s our captain and one of the hardest workers we have.

“Annie got better as the year (2001-02) went along and I hope she picks up where she left off and keeps improving at that rate. We’ve already seen this in practice.”

One new face that Bulldog fans could likely see a lot of is that of junior transfer Adri Tromp (pronounced Audree) who spent the last two years at Glen Oaks College. She averaged 14 points a game and seven rebounds last year and earned first-team all-Michigan Community College Athletic Association honors.

Other new faces among the forwards includes transfers Carrie Schneider and Sarah Sommer, as well as returning squad-member Sarah Bernard who redshirted last year.

Schneider spent last season at Moberly Area Community College and led her team in assists (74) as it won the region XVI championship and finished sixth in the NJCAA tournament.

While a member of the Bradley University (Ill.) women’s basketball team, Sommer was named to the Missouri Valley Conference all-freshman team and finished second on the squad with 9.4 points and 4.6 rebounds a game. However, she sat out last season.

“Carrie will provide good depth at forward and the experience we need with all the newcomers on the team,” Sloop said.

“Sarah Sommer is probably the most instinctive player we have,” he continued. “The more quickly she can adjust to not having played the last two years, the better off we’ll be.

“Sarah Bernard can throw it up from outside,” Sloop said. “She’ll help give us more of the shooting presence on the perimeter that we lost with Wendi.”

Look for Tromp and Schneider to see time at guard too.

Both junior Emily Turnbull and sophomore Kelli Floyd saw considerable minutes at point guard last year when senior Robyn Gerber was slowed with a back injury, but they will play a bigger role this year. Turnbull earned six starts in ’01-02 and was second with 59 assists.

Keagan Thalin will graduate next May, thus forgoing her final year of eligibility, but look for the senior to go out on a good note after earning six starts last year as well. She was third on the team a year ago with 12 three-pointers as well.

“Emily, Kelli and Keagan could all handle the ball a lot,” Sloop indicated. “You may see more of Emily and Kelli playing together, and even all three could be on the floor at the same time, as opposed to subbing for each other.”

Freshman Ali Long and transfer Jenna Gray will also provide adequate guard play. However, the Bulldogs will be without Gray until the Dec. 19 home game with Drury due to NCAA transfer rules. Though she attended the University of Missouri and MACC, she was not a member of either basketball team.

“All’s done well in preseason and may be the farthest along of the newcomers,” Sloop said.

Though Sloop feels the team may lack the presence at center it had before, look for 6-2 sophomore Jamie Huffman to step up her role inside this year. She made strides in 15 games last year after being sidelined the remainder of the campaign with an injury.

“Jamie has continued to improve and we’ll look for her to be more involved with the offense this year too,” Sloop said.

In addition, 6-2 walk-on Lisa Miceli will play a reserve role at center. Sloop sees this year’s schedule as maybe one of the most challenging in his tenure as head coach. “I think this year’s schedule could be the toughest in my three years,” Sloop said. “We open with two Division I teams (Missouri and Western Illinois) and then face two nationally competitive DII teams (Drury and Cameron) at the Drury tournament. We then play Quincy, a team that has been ranked among the top 25 teams in the nation in the preseason.”

“It should give us a chance to find out about ourselves early on and will be great preparation for MIAA play.” The MIAA continues to be one of the premier Division II conferences in the nation for women’s basketball and this year will undoubtedly be no exception.

“The depth of this league is the most difficult aspect of being coach,” Sloop indicated. “On any given night any team can beat another. When you look at our non-conference schedule as a league, I think it matches up with the best in the country. “In my opinion, the bottom half of this league could compete for the upper half in a lot of other conferences.” Look for Missouri Western, the defending MIAA regular season and tournament champion, as well as host of the NCAA Division II final four this year, to be among the league’s top teams. Washburn returns four starters off of its 23-7 team that finished second in the MIAA regular season, while Central Missouri seems to have a strong returning class and a good group of newcomers.

This will be the first year of the Sonic MIAA Championships, formerly the MIAA postseason tournament. The new format will feature the top eight men’s and women’s teams in the MIAA, but will take place at Municipal Auditorium in Kansas City March 6-9.

ABOUT THE WESTERWINDS: The Westerwinds open their regular season with Truman, but have played two exhibition games, winning both over the St. Louis Gold team 76-62 and the Chicago Challengers, 67-57.

Senior guard Tugba Palazoglu went 3-of-3 from beyond the arc to lead four double-digit scorers with 16 points over the St. Louis Golds. Palazoglu hit a three-pointer with 2:07 left to help Western in an 8-0 run. Western jumped out to a 20-4 lead in the second half to the Chicago Challengers before Cornelius and Tyo marketed the team's scoring. Western Illinois out-rebounded the Challengers 26-22, including advantage of seven-to-five on the offensive glass.

The teams went into halftime tied, 32-32. Western went 30-of-61 from the field (49.2), and hit 5-of-9 from the field (55.6). Western tied the Goldstars on boards with 34 total rebounds. St. Louis went 19-of-53 from the field (35.8 percent) and 9-of-27 from three-point range (33.3 percent). HEAD COACH JOHN SLOOP: John Sloop became the eighth head coach in the 30-year history of the Truman women's basketball program in July of 2000. Sloop had spent the five previous years as the assistant for the Truman men's basketball team.

In his first season as taskmaster for the Bulldogs, Sloop's team posted nine wins, but made a rapid improvement last year with a 14-13 record. The 2001-02 squad qualified for the MIAA tournament for the fourth time in the last five years and produced a first-team all-MIAA center, Jennifer Perkins. Sloop begins the regular season with a career mark of 23-30 at Truman.
