Tom Drennan, who coached the Truman men's golf team from 1993-95, returned as head coach of the Bulldogs prior to the 1999-2000 season. He's in his seventh year counting the two stints, as the men's head coach.

Drennan, who serves as the head pro at Kirksville Country Club, is a 1986 graduate of Illinois Wesleyan. He was a three-year competitor in golf for the Titans.

Drennan's first stint with the Bulldogs began in 1993 after Bill Richerson left the post. In the fall season of that year, he guided Truman to the Central Missouri State Heart of America Tournament championship as well as top finishes at two NCAA Division I meets, including a second-place finish at the Twin Cities Classic (Minn.). In the following spring season, Truman finished sixth in the Mid-America Intercollegiate Athletics Association and posted a first-place finish at the Lincoln (Mo.) Invitational. Drennan's team, in the spring of 1995, finished fifth in the MIAA and won the 18-team Missouri Western Invitational.

In 1999-2000, his first year back with the Bulldogs, the team placed fifth in the final MIAA standings and garnered a second-place tie at the Washburn (Kan.) Invitational. The following year, the Bulldogs placed fifth in the conference and tied for fourth at the MIAA championship in Bolivar. The last two years, Drennan's squads have advanced to the NCAA Super Regionals, the first postseason appearances for the team since 1996-97.

Drennan first worked as the assistant golf pro at Jefferson City Country Club before taking the head pro position at Kirksville Country Club.

He and his wife, Leesa, have a daughter, Megan.

* MIAA designated events
The Bulldogs men’s golf team showed their potential during the fall, winning the Central Region Fall Invitational, the first tournament title for the team since the 1995-96 season.

However, the team was inconsistent in their other three fall meets, and see themselves in fifth place in the MIAA standings as the spring season opens up.

Jason Bertram paced the squad in three of the four fall events, including a tie for eighth-place at the Central Region Fall meet. The junior has a 76.5 average for the season.

Senior Brett Meeske had a strong fall season, finishing second on the squad with a 77.4 average. He led the team at the second MIAA event of the year at the Missouri Southern Invitational.

The other senior among the regulars is Jake Mann, who finished second on the team in the first three events. He averaged 76.5 strokes over the first three events and finished the fall season with a 79.8 average.

Freshman Jesse Helms has stepped up right away and was third on the team with a 79.4 average in the fall.

Other Bulldogs on the roster are senior Justin Johnson, junior Andy Crossett and freshmen Noah Devine and Tyler Phillips.

At the Truman Classic, Phillips averaged 78.0 as an individual competitor, Crossett averaged 80.0 and Johnson averaged 82.5. Devine did not see any action during the fall campaign.
